

your face is a constant image in my mind like a snapshot that I reach for when I seek solitude...peace your beautiful eyes that laugh when you laugh skin so crinkled when you smile making it impossible to resist this need to touch the deep furrows that reveal your soul your lips
so soft and tender allow me to sink deeply into the reality of you please let me stay I never want to return to the truth let my fingers dance over you let me caress the mountains and valleys that make you... you
let me love you forever